Good Morning,

My name is Jillian Pirtle. I am the Producer and Host of the Arts In Color Television Show in Philadelphia Pennsylvania (which is a local show that I have created that features the Arts in our area from the perspective of Youth and Children). The show is being presented on the WTVE Network Channels 25 and 51 and is set to Premiere on September 16, 2013. I am writing because we were just informed that Closed Captioning Standards would be required for the episodes with the Network. Of course hearing this puts me in a very nervous and burdensome situation as I have solely put all of my Financial Resources into producing the episodes for the Arts In Color Television Show and paying the funds and Fees to the WTVE Network to get them on the Air. At this time I do not have any extra funds or resources available to pay for the Services of Closed Captioning that is being asked for the episodes until I am able to garner a sponsor and therefore I am humbly asking for an Exemption from the Standard Closed Captioning at this time. I am promising to work very hard to garner a Sponsor to assist with closed captioning services in the future as I progress with the show but I am asking now for a consideration for Exemption for the Arts In Color Television show. It costs me $650 a month to air the show for two episodes a month and it costs me $600 a month for filming and editing services of the episodes and that takes 90% of my living income for the month and with the additional costs of Closed Captioning Fees for each episode I would not have the funding. Communications with the network have stated that they don't provide those services for episodes and that it is the responsibility of the Client/Programmer to provide them. I have sought the assistance of Companies VideoSmith (Philadelphia, Pa) Video One (South Jersey) and Advantage Broadcasting (South Jersey) all of whom provide Closed Captioning Services and have quoted me Prices starting from $200 per episode to upwards of $500 - $600 an episode. None of these services can I afford at this time and am requesting the help of the FCC with this exemption. I would be eternally grateful if your office could provide the Exemption at this time so that I may be able to stay on schedule with our Premiere date of September 16, 2013 with the WTVE Network. If you have any further questions please feel free to call me at 215-779-4219.

Sincerely,
Jillian Patricia Pirtle

Besides the cost of the network and production for the show there have been no other expenses and absolutely No Profit has been made at all.

NOTES: As a young College Graduate and Actress and representative of my State as Miss Pennsylvania I have not had a steady income from a company in over two years and therefore have not been able to file a Tax return with the State and Federal Government.

Without this Exemption from the FCC I will not have the funding and the Arts In Color Show would not be able to be aired. Please work with me as we are doing the best we can with the very limited resorces that I have.
